Maryam Golestan Hashemi

I am a medical student at the university of Isfahan. I am an athlete in martial arts, certified fitness trainer and beauty therapist. I also have a background in social media management, visual content production and narration. I have self-trained myself to use video editing applications and have nearly two years of experience with creating video clips for social media purposes. I have the experience of being social manager for businesses in the field of medicine. I have acquired an English diploma and now I am learning German.
